

News Email 1 September 2020

Dear Friends of Lough Carra,

I'd just like to give a brief update on what's new with the LCCA.

Lough Carra Catchment Association Youtube Channel

We've created a channel on youtube where videos and presentations will be uploaded in the coming weeks. The first video to be uploaded is of the exceptional annual Swallow Roost on Lough Carra that was filmed by Chris Huxley in August. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YXRce-jlt5c>

If you have any videos you think would be relevant to the channel please let us know by emailing loughcarraca@gmail.com

Heritage Week

Karen Dempsey of the Dept of Archaeology, National University of Ireland and The Castle Studies Trust, has produced a presentation "Plants, People and Places: medieval castles and modern landscapes". This presentation features Castle Carra and can be viewed on the Heritage Week website <https://www.heritageweek.ie/projects/plants-people-and-places-medieval-castles-and-modern-landscapes>

Eco Eye

The RTE Eco Eye team will be coming to film Lough Carra this weekend with the aim of producing a programme about the lake and the LCCA. Their interest in the lake was prompted by the two articles in the Catchments Association magazine winter 2019 <https://www.catchments.ie/catchments-newsletter-issue-12-winter-2019/>

The team have organised a packed schedule to meet people including several from the LCCA and will be filming around the lake over the weekend. I don't have their full schedule but know they'll be meeting our Chairman Tom Byrne as well as Cilian Roden and his colleague Paul Murphy, Chris Huxley and others. This is a very high profile event for the lake and the LCCA. We'll let you know as soon as we hear when the programme will be aired.

If you no longer wish to receive texts or emails from the LCCA please email loughcarraca@gmail.com

Regards Lynda Huxley
Secretary, LCCA
